The team has been able to get private user conversation and private group to demo.

The team is facing some synch. problems due to integration of front end. A possible solution could be to see if promises in React are getting properly resolved or not.

The team has been doing well in terms of getting all the api in place. At this point, the team should combine the efforts to get the front-end and backend get integrated well.

The team had a notable progress in this sprint in terms of features that could be demo'ed to the client.
